Subject: senate bill allowing for application for licensure after 2, not 3, years of post-graduate training

Dear Sir;

Given the fact that no accredited post-graduate training program (ie residency) is complete in 2 years, I am unclear why the Board is allowing for application for WV licensure to IMGs after only 2 years of post-graduate training. Is this related to the fact that IMGs are requesting privileging to work outside their residency (ie ER coverage)? If so, this should be clearly stated; otherwise it appears that 2 years of post-graduate training for IMGs is as good as 3 years. Thank you,
Jondavid Pollock, M.D., Ph.D.

Dear Dr. Pollock:

The West Virginia Board of Medicine has received and considered your comments on its proposed legislative rule 11 CSR 1A. I am writing on behalf of the Board to advise you that the licensure eligibility criteria changes for graduates of international medical schools are modified in the proposed rule to align the rule with statutory changes implemented by the passage of SB499. Prior to the passage of SB499, graduates of international medical schools were required to complete three years of ACGME approved post graduate training to be eligible for licensure in West Virginia. Under the new law, only two years of ACGME post-graduate training is required. It is the Board's understanding that this standard is consistent with the median requirements of other states. The purpose of the rule change on this subject matter is to align the rule with the new statute.

Thank you for your thoughtful review of the Board's proposed rules. The Board is grateful for the time and effort you took to provide thoughtful comments. The agency-approved version of 11 CSR 1A will be filed with the West Virginia Secretary of State's Office this week.

Sincerely,

Mark A. Spangler

Sir,

I would like to know why the legislature felt it necessary to change the licensing procedure.

As for the reporting requirements, I applaud it. However, I fear that it will be much like the PDMP. In my experience, some entities ignore the requirement and it becomes "garbage in, garbage out"
